strongest political foes, and loved by those favored with his manful friendship. With the proud, progressive and beautiful metropolis of Mason county William H. Cox is identified in all the relations that arise between representative men and the community they live in. He has served Maysville with distinction in various offices. He serves her now in honorable and useful legislative position. Mason county used to give her other favorite son, the Hon. James N. Kehoe, a Democratic majority of about 1,200, but that enormous Democratic strength in Mason can never be marshaled up against William H. Cox. If it could, he had never been Senator from the Mason-Lewis District. His irresistible personal worth and charm win him at every election a heavy Democratic vote. Not for a unanimous election would Senator Cox sacrifice one iota of Republican faith and principle. Every one recognizes his fidelity to the party; all admire his loyalty to its teachings. Hence his repeated successes at the polls.

The tribute from his fellow legislators is timely and significant. It is expressive of regard profound on the one hand for Mr. Cox personally and politically; it is, on the other, condemnation most severe of the Ernst machine. Senator Cox is one of the very last men that Boss Ernst would like to have so honored. But Boss Ernst's word and wishes no longer pass for current coin in the Republican realm.

The Republican legislative caucus accentuated the rebuke to Ernst by naming W. W. Byerly, anti-machine Republican of Knox county, and Isaac C. Adair of Ohio county, another anti-machine man, for Prison Commissioners. The longer Ernst holds on to his job as State Republican "leader" the more unpopular he becomes. His finish is at hand.

TAKE another look at these figures—$9,548.74 spent last year on Maysville's so-called streets! Let's make the waste an even $10,000 this year.

SINCE Editor WILT went to Frankfort to sit on the lid and make good laws, The Fleming Gazette calls Maysville a "little city." That certainly calls for Lion Coffee and Toy Pistols for two.

OH, no, dear boy; not a penny of the $9,548.74 which Maysville's mud roads cost last year is to be charged against the recently-built sewers. They are in a separate account, and their cost was $2,888.36.

ACCORDING to The Times-Star in some parts of Russia the people are having a chance of seeing what a truly peaceful and law-abiding person the average Socialist is when he gets into a position of power or prominence.

THE business man who would spend $9,548.74 a year for patching an old roof, when he could have a new one put on for $4,000 a year, would be voted a fool. And yet that's the policy of Maysville in the matter of her so-called streets.

THE threat of Jo. BLACKBURN to devote the rest of his life to fighting the Democratic Machine should be sufficient warning for Republicans not to make damed fools of themselves; that seems impossible when the present Colling Republicans are out for Federal of

Premiums on Certain Coins Have Increased Wonderfully

Premiums on old coins have advanced from 75 to 100% during the last few years, said an old coin dealer to a reporter for a Washington newspaper. Any number of coins that could have been picked up for a small sum a short time ago now bring sums up to $75 and $100.

This is due to the tremendous revival of interest that has taken place in coin collecting. There are now in this country more than 4,000 coin collectors who systematically buy old coins and are always in search of new specimens.

They make trips to Europe and other countries in quest of desired rarities. Some of them make trips of this character every year for no other purpose than to ransack the shops of dealers in odds and ends on the other side of the ocean in the hope of finding a treasure, which, as a matter of fact, they very often do.

Of course, there are thousands of persons who casually gather old coins indiscriminately, but I don't take such collectors into account. So great altogether is the demand for old coins nowadays that the supply does not begin to meet it.

Most American collectors go in for coins of United States issue. Not much interest is taken here in foreign and in the ancient Greek and Roman coins, although they are the rage abroad.

A good many collectors make a specialty of gathering Colonial coins and the private gold issues of North Carolina, California and Georgia, but the large old copper cent leads them all in point of interest. Still other collectors go in for die varieties and mint marks. That small letter on a coin which shows the place of its mintage makes all the difference in the world to a collector and also in the price.

"C. C." ADDS TO VALUE. For instance, a twenty-cent piece of 1875 of the Philadelphia Mint is worth just twenty-five cents, and yet a coin of the same denomination of 1877 or 1878, bearing the two tiny letters "C. C." for Carson City, will bring between $10 and $15.

The dime of 1894 is another example. The one made in San Francisco, with the letter "S," is worth anywhere from $5 to $10, whereas those made in other mints are worth just their face value or a trifle over. There were only twenty-four of the former ten-cent pieces minted.

Would you believe a dollar of 1904 was worth $5.50. It is, just the same, and that sum was paid at a recent auction sale.

Yet such is the inconsistency of coin collecting that a dollar of 1798, in good condition, can be bought for $2.50. The reason for this is that all 1904 dollars were struck in proof sets, and were quite limited.

Proof coins are made by burnishing the sheet of metal before the coins are stamped, and they come forth with a high polish. The low figure of the 1798 dollar is due to the enormous number preserved in good condition.

Many of the coins minted since 1850 bring premiums that greatly exceed those for coins issued during the latter part of the Eighteenth Century and the beginning of the Nineteenth Century.

A gold dollar of 1875 in proof condition will bring $75. The $3 gold piece of 1873 is worth $50. All $3 gold pieces, in fact, with the exception of those minted at the Philadelphia Mint in 1855 and 1874, are worth premiums ranging up to $75.

The $4 gold piece of 1879 and 1880 is rated at $50. The flying eagle cent of 1856 brings $15, and is hard to get at that price.

All the silver three-cent pieces command premiums that range as high as $3. The nickel three-cent pieces of 1877 is worth $4, and the five-cent piece of the same year is valued at $3.50.

And, what will seem strangest of all to the general public, the common bronze cent of 1877, in proof condition, is quoted at $2.50, and even those which have been in circulation fetch an advanced price.

DIE CUTS A FIGURE. Die varieties mean more than one would suppose. Of the 1794 cents alone there are fifty-five die varieties, each one of which is held at a high premium, and of all the big copper cents there are 817 die varieties known at the present time, with other countries to hear from.

And this just refers to coins of one denomination. It can easily be imagined the work ahead of the collector who goes in for the collection of die varieties of coins of all denominations.

The majority of the collectors of gold coins confine themselves to denominations under $5. This by no means limits their field greatly, as there are hundreds of varieties of the private gold issues of the Western States, North Carolina and Georgia, not to mention the varieties of regular United States issue.

Just take the Brasher double. This was a gold piece issued in New York City in 1837. On the reverse it bears the motto, "Unum E Pluribus," and an eagle with spread wings; upon its breast a shield, with a bundle of arrows in the right talon and an olive branch in the left, while the head is surmounted by thirteen stars.

This coin was struck from dies which had been made for a cent, which the maker had submitted to the authorities for approval, but it was rejected. The coin is now worth more than $500, and is seldom offered for sale.

Of the California gold issues alone there are several hundred varieties, and some of them command enormous premiums.

EAGLES THAT ARE VALUABLE.

There are only three collectors in this country who make a specialty of accumulating gold pieces of the value of $10 and upward. There are not only the eagle and double eagle of United States issue, but the many $10, $20 and $50 gold pieces of private firms in the West, and the $16 and $40 07 gold slugs.

This branch of numismatics is only for millionaires. All the fifty-dollar gold pieces, of which there were seven varieties, are octagonal in shape except one, and now fetch from $150 to $500; that is, when they are offered for sale, which is not very often.

But there is no branch of numismatics which should be rare.

The Mint recently sold 904,585 weighty coins of this enormous number, but where they

OUR UNEQUAL LAW

Strong Reasons For a Change in Kentucky's Taxing System

Judge A. P. Humphrey discussed "Taxation" before the Louisville Bar Association. His views on taxation are not complimentary to the existing laws of Kentucky.

His first objection to the present system is the law that requires all personal property to be assessed whether or not the owner lives in this state, and at the same time assessing personal property out of the state owned by persons living in this state or by corporations whose charters are taken out in this state. He says that in fairness and equity the Legislature could utilize only one horn of this dilemma, and not greedily seize both horns.

His second objection is summed up in his own language that "it is impossible to establish or maintain a satisfactory system of taxation so long as our Constitution requires the ad valorem system to be applied to all classes of property."

Judge Humphrey discussed the recent decision of the Court of Appeals in deciding against the validity of the license tax ordinance in Louisville. After quoting the decision he says:

"If these illustrations are to be taken as the considerate judgment of the Court of Appeals, it is difficult to see how any license ordinance can be drawn."

"Thus, if one man has $10,000, which he does not use in any gainful pursuit, but simply proposes to live upon its income, and another man has $10,000 which he employs in business and diligently turns over four or five times, and a third man employs the same $10,000 in business, but, with less skill or diligence, turns it over two or three times, it is quite impossible to draw a license ordinance based upon the gross income of those who engaged their money in business, and make the return the same from two individuals of the same class, or from the same individual in different years, or from either of the individuals engaged in business with the one who hides his talents in the napkin."

"Again, the Court failed to observe that while the man who simply invests his $10,000 to live upon its income, pays taxes only upon his investment, the bank or trust company pays its 5% not only upon the amount it receives from the investment of its capital, surplus and undivided profits, but also upon its gains on money deposited with it, less the interest it pays for such deposit; and in the case of a trust company, upon its earnings, acting in the capacity of fiduciary, guardian, executor, administrator or trustee."

There is no method so certain—so relatively i not absolutely equal—as the measuring of taxation on personal property by its gross return. This taxation is not peculiar to this state. I was t some years since by a prominent merchant in Cincinnati that bonds were sold on that market on a basis of return which exactly equaled the state, county and city taxes. That is, if the law were in force, the bond buyer would pay the whole return on his investment into the public purse.

If our Constitution were so amended as to allow a reasonable rate to be levied upon property of this character, the return to the state in money will be substantial, and the demoralizing influence of tax evasion largely eliminated. In other words, the moral gain would be as great as the financial gain.

The same principle is reflected in the rat interest. Take a merchant who employs $10,000 of his own capital in business. If he has established a character for business ability, industry and integrity he will likely be able to borrow at least $50,000 more. On assessment day he will therefore have, either in merchandise or accounts, $150,000. But if he has borrowed $50,000 at the ruling rate of interest, say 6 per cent., and must pay $2.72 taxes, his money is costing him almost 9 per cent. This is a rate of interest which business cannot stand. If, however, this merchant is allowed to measure his contribution to the public purse by the amount of his gross returns, fixed at a fair rate, he will be encouraged not only to use his capital but his credit in the production of the largest gross return."

visitors. The large double parlors were thrown open, presenting a beautiful scene of handsome ladies and gallant gentlemen whirling in the waltz dance. The guests were met at the door by Miss Ruth Hall, gowned in pink silk, who graciously received. Miss Sallie Milton was a beautiful blue silk and looked very handsome. At 11 o'clock the guests were in the dining-room, where an elegant reception was given, after which they again met in the parlors and engaged in dancing.
Among those present were Daisy Bailey and Miss Elizabeth

DOAN'S OINTMENT

decided to go into liquidation on account of the high rate of taxation and the light demands for money.

HOW IT STICKS.

Maysville Has found it Hard to Shake off.

Hard to bear, harder to get rid of,
Is any itching skin complaint.

Eczema or Itching Piles.

Doan's Ointment relieves and cures

All itchiness of the skin.

Maysville people endorse this statement.

Mrs. Kate Poth, living at the corner street and Forest avenue, Maysville.

"I gave a statement about Doan's which was published in our May

I said that I had received most from the use of this remedy, pro-

Wood & Son's Drugstore. I had an itching or eczema of th-out in spots and sometimes pear on my forehead and it was particularly troublesome and was then so intense at night. It required one Ointment to cure it. It been lasting for the past never been even an hour.

A friend of mine used to remove the annoyance

she used Doan's completely cured."
